ORDER

THIS MATTER is before the Court on the motion of the United States requesting that the Court enter an order holding this action in abeyance. [CV Doc. 3].<sup>1</sup> According to the government's motion, defense counsel does not object to its request. [Id.].

Petitioner was convicted by plea of conspiracy to commit bank robbery under 18 U.S.C. § 371; aiding and abetting bank robbery by force, violence, intimidation, under 18 U.S.C. §§ 2113(d) and 2; using and carrying a firearm during and in relation to a crime of violence under 18 U.S.C. § 924(c)(1); and possession of a firearm by a convicted felon under 18 U.S.C. §§ 922(g)(1), 924(e)(1). [CR Doc. 35]. The presentence report noted that Petitioner had two prior qualifying North Carolina convictions – specifically, two 1992 convictions for breaking, entering and larceny -- that triggered the Career Offender enhancement under section 4B1.2 of the Sentencing Guidelines. The Court sentenced Petitioner as a Career Offender to a total term of imprisonment of 300 months. [Id.].

On June 21, 2016, Petitioner commenced this action by filing a petition pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255. [CV Doc. 1]. In his petition, Petitioner contends that in light of Johnson v. United States, 135 S. Ct. 2551 (2015), his prior convictions under North Carolina law for breaking, entering, and larceny no longer qualify as a “crime of violence” under the Guidelines. [Id. at 4-5]. Consequently, Petitioner argues his Career Offender designation is improper and thus his sentence is unlawful. [Id.].

In response to the petition, the government has filed a motion to hold this proceeding in abeyance. [CV Doc. 3]. The government notes that this case will be affected by the Supreme Court’s decision next Term in Beckles v. United States, 616 Fed. Appx. 415 (11th Cir.), cert. granted, 2016 WL 1029080 (U.S. June 27, 2016) (No. 15-8544). [Id. at 2]. One of the questions presented in Beckles is whether Johnson applies retroactively to cases collaterally challenging federal sentences enhanced under the residual clause in U.S.S.G. § 4B1.2(a)(2). The residual clause invalidated in Johnson is identical to the residual clause in the Career Offender provision of the Guidelines, § 4B1.2(a)(2) (defining "crime of violence").

Based upon the reasons given by the government, and without objection by Petitioner, the Court concludes that the government's motion should be granted.

ORDER

IT IS, THEREFORE, ORDERED that the government's motion to place this case in abeyance [CV Doc. 3], is hereby GRANTED and this matter is hereby held in abeyance pending the Supreme Court's decision in Beckles. Thereafter, the government shall have 60 days from the date the Supreme Court decides Beckles within which to file its response in this matter.
